Purveyor to Th. Th. M. M. the Queen of England, the King of Prussia, the Emperor of Russia, H. R. H. the Prince of Wales, &c., &c.

Prize Medal—London, 1851, 1862. Paris, 1867. Oporto, 1865.

The genuine Eau de Cologne invented by my ancestor, in the year 1709, has for a long number of years been patronised by the Royalty, Nobility, and Gentry of England, and all other nations; the success and the reputation which it has acquired by its constant excellent quality have rendered it a great favourite with the general public.

The numerous imitations of my only genuine Eau de Cologne, which are offered generally in an ex erior appearance similar to mine, induce me to bring it to the notice of the public, that all bottles containing my genuine Eau de Cologne have affixed to them my trade mark, being a white label, and bearing in black the signature and seal of my firm, which is

Johann Maria Farina, gegenueber dem Julich's Platz,

My genuine Eau de Cologne may be had of all the principal perfumers and druggists in England, or by applying direct to my undermentioned address in Cologne (Prussia), and I caution against selling imitations of my label and trade mark, both being protected by the high Courts of England and Germany.

W. V. WRIGHT AND CO.'S PURE COAL-TAR SOAP,

REGISTERED AS

SAPO CARBONIS DETERGENS.

THIS SOAP is compounded from our "LIQUOR CARBONIS DETERGENS," which, according to the testimony of the leading Medical Journals is unrivalled for its Detergent and Antiseptic qualities, besides being an almost infallible specific for Indolent Ulcers, Wounds, Sores, and Affections of the Skin generally. All the active principles of Coal-Tar, including that powerful disinfectant, Carbolic Acid, are contained in the "Liquor," and are developed in the Soap in a milder form.

W. V. WRIGHT & Co.'s PURE COAL-TAR SOAP is a material security against infectious diseases of every sort, and where [illegible] offensive drains. This is the manner in which the soap has been used for washing.

W. V. WRIGHT & Co.'s PURE COAL-TAR SOAP improves the general condition of the skin, which becomes soft and silky, and after washing there is a conscious sensation of a most agreeable and refreshing character. The face assumes a clear and healthy appearance; there is no liability to chilblains or chapped hands, and offensive emanations from the person (if there be any) are quickly removed.

W. V. WRIGHT & Co.'s PURE COAL-TAR SOAP, from the small quantity of alkali which it contains, as well as from the compression to which it is subjected, does not soften or waste in water like other soaps, and will be, therefore, found most economical in use.

W. V. WRIGHT & Co.'s PURE COAL-TAR SOAP is a specific against the bite of reptiles, the sting of insects, &c., &c., and is an invaluable article in hot climates.

W. V. WRIGHT & Co.'s PURE COAL-TAR SOAP is most highly spoken of by the Press. The following is from the Lancet, Dec. 22, 1866:—"In our hands it has been a most effective agent in the case of various skin diseases, especially of the chronic eczematous class, and one case of psoriasis, which had resisted all other kinds of treatment, speedily got well under the application of the liquor carbonis detergens. We esteem it a very valuable addition to our list of skin remedies and worthy of a very extended trial by the profession. In the above classes of disease, and in various others, such as fœtid ulcers, &c., the preparation is put into the form of soap." Messrs. W. V. WRIGHT and Co., London, are the manufacturers." The Bombay Gazette

SATURDAY AUGUST 29, 1868.

VARIOUS reports from the North-Western frontier continue to arrive by every post. A Punjabee paper, of no great standing, tells us that something like an action has been fought, that the 4th Foot suffered severely, and that General Vibe was wounded. Of course it is conceivable that the tribes said to be seeking safety beyond the Indus were overtaken before the could cross the stream it is not unlikely that they may have stood at bay. But the probabilities are that the report rests on some very fragile foundation. The important fact in connection with the assembling of an army on the Indus frontier is that a decisive campaign may be considered as certain. The Government, no only in India but at home, have been for some time convinced that it was necessary to read the frontier tribes a severe lesson. With commendable secresy and decision they have prepared for strong measures, and the ease and rapidity with which a force has been concentrated marks the extent of foresight and preparation. We may now fairly assume that our soldiers will march to the Indus, and that the Government will adopt whatever steps may be necessary to inflict a lasting blow upon the turbulent people of the mountain. There are not wanting indications that Sir William Mansfield will take command in person—itself no insignificant sign of the magnitude and gravity of the operation which, after mature deliberation, it has been resolved to execute. If the result should be, not only the complete reduction of the tribes who trouble the peace of the frontier, but the establishment of Shere Ali Khan in Cabul, the public will heartily approve a policy which has been hastily adopted, but is not yet too late.

ONCE more the fatal rumour—that Lord Mayo is to be the Governor General of India in succession to Sir John Lawrence—reaches us both through public and private channels. The public authority for the statement is the Standard, a journal known to be in close communication with some members of the present administration. Private advices from an opposite quarter unhappily give some corroboration to an announcement which we should consider semi-official if we were sure that it had not been contradicted after the departure of the mail. Absolute reliance cannot be placed upon the report in the Standard, but undoubtedly its appearance therein implies that there must be some ground for the assertion.

Now should it prove to be not unfounded we must say at once that it would be difficult to imagine a worse selection from the men at the disposal of the Disraeli government. Either Sir Stafford Northcote or the Duke of Buckingham has far superior claims by character and acquirements. The Duke of Buckingham has a title big enough to impress the native imagination, a position which would secure him respect, average culture and unusual habits of business. Sir Stafford Northcote is a man trained to statesmanship, having a special aptitude for finance, a liking for work, and a considerable acquaintance with Indian affairs. But Lord Mayo is literally a cipher in politics. He has never done anything to show that he had more than that amount of brains and aptitude possessed by a moderately cultivated peer. He owes his position in the Tory party to his birth and the extreme rarity of available ability in its ranks, especially in 1852 when, as Lord Naas, he came to the front in the House of Commons. For nearly twenty years he has been before the public and nowhere has he left his mark. None dispute his genial kindly nature, his urbanity, and high character. But more than this is wanted for the Government of India. Brains, industry, sound judgment, iron will are even more needed than geniality, valuable as that attribute is. We do not, especially in these stirring times at hand, want a Viceroy to make things pleasant," give unexceptionable entertainments, and strive to be popular with everybody. Yet, judging again by his past, this function that Lord Mayo would fulfil. It is to discredit to him that he is not a wise and an abler man; but it will be a great disgrace to the British Government should Mr. Disraeli be permitted to play at duck and drake with the Indian empire, and appoint a Viceroy whose chief merit is that he has always excelled in the not arduous game of follow my leader. Lord Mayo, it seems, is Mr. Disraeli's pet selection, and we fear it is but too true, that if Sir John Lawrence can be spirited away before the spring, or before the great division which will come off at Westminster a few days this side of Christmas, the destiny of our magnificent empire will be handed over to a light-hearted Irishman who has no other claim to fill the post, than that of having cheerfully stuck to his party through thick and thin.

Against this, in the interests of India, we emphatically protest. When there are men like Lord Salisbury, the Duke of Argyle, and Lord Stanley, one of whom may possibly be available, it is insulting to select a Lord Mayo. But we trust that Sir John Lawrence will not leave until the fate of the Imperial Ministry is decided, and that a "lucid interval," even if the Tories are successful, will save us from the sugar-stick rule of a fifth-rate Irish Peer. Sir John Lawrence is said to have remarked that none but valets could be appointed Viceroy in future, and if Lord Mayo should be selected, it would really seem as if the Chiefs of the Tory party thought so too.

At a late hour last night, after having written the above, we received Reuter's telegram conveying the positive announcement of a well-informed Edinburgh journal that Earl Mayo will succeed Sir John Lawrence. If this be so we can only add an expression of regret to our protest.

THE evidence given by Premchund Roychund and other witnesses before the Commission now sitting in Bombay discloses a peculiar state of morality among the chief public servants at the Presidency town. We allude to the statements

MILITARY LETTER.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, 7TH AUGUST.

ALTHOUGH it is not generally known, and is not yet whispered in official circles, it is a fact that India will be visited by the Duke of Edinburgh. His Royal Highness will, as it a fact present arranged, leave England in a few weeks, and after sailing round the Cape will go to Bombay. Thence he will make a tour through India accompanied by the Governor-General, and will hold durbars in great state.

The Abyssinian Gazette, that is, the Gazette which will announce the promotions and rewards for the Abyssinian Expedition, will not be published so soon as was expected. There are, however, as I hear, no changes to be made from what I anticipated in my last letter. The delay in its publication is perhaps partly due to the unwonted heat of the weather, which has expelled nearly all the official world from London earlier than usual.

It has been reported, and some of the daily newspapers have actually announced, that Lord Mayo is to be the future Viceroy of India. The report has not been officially confirmed, and some people who ought to know something on the subject say that Sir Stafford Northcote is to be the statesman selected for the post. Others equally worthy of credence assert that he has declined to go to India; while a third party hint that Lord Napier received a promise of the Viceroyalty before he went to Madras from the same political party, which is now in power. It is probably not as yet definitely decided who is to be the Viceroy, but it is almost certain that his name will be found to be one of the three abovementioned.

The third volume of the new series of the Wellington Despatches has lately been published. It embraces the history of political events from December 1825 to May 1827; but is chiefly remarkable as containing the Duke of Wellington's memorandum on Napoleon's Russian campaign, which is anything but complimentary to Napoleon's prescience or foresight.

An official record of the Abyssinian Expedition is to be compiled by the Topographical and Statistical Department of the War Office, to which an officer of the Indian service is to be attached for the occasion. This officer will be Captain Holland, who was Assistant Quartermaster General at head quarters during the Expedition.

The Volunteer review at Windsor was distinguished, as will be recollected, by the display of great insubordination and want of discipline by some of the corps engaged. In consequence one company of Hertfordshire Volunteers, which ingloriously distinguished itself on that occasion, has been disbanded, and the conduct of the ninth Essex corps is now under consideration. The disbandment of the Hertfordshire company has been much commented upon. Some hold that it was a just and necessary step on the part of the authorities. But the cause of such a step being required ought surely to be investigated. It has become quite apparent that the system on which Volunteer regiments are organized is quite inadequate to secure discipline. Officers selected by the privates are not calculated to enforce discipline so much as to court popularity. The satisfaction or dissatisfaction of ranks is only reflected and supported instead of being subdued by the commissioned grades. The Windsor review has caused this to be seen and has brought to a head a feeling which has been gradually extending through the country. People at last are beginning to perceive that the militia has been foolishly neglected in favour of the more novel Volunteers, but that this neglect has been a great error. It is fortunate that this phase of public opinion has been made manifest now, as there are indications that the War Office contemplates some scheme for the reorganization and improvement of the whole of the reserve forces of the kingdom. It now is perceived that the militia is the only true reserve which can stand in second line to the army. The Volunteers might be extremely useful for a great emergency and for a short time, but they never will supply recruits to the regular forces. Nor are the men who compose the Volunteer corps of that class who could be spared from their ordinary avocations in time even of considerable necessity without a total paralysis of the commerce of the country. Even for the defence of England the Volunteers could not be made available except for a very short time: for a war waged on the continent of Europe or in a more distant theatre they would be utterly useless. The militia on the contrary does supply a large amount of recruits to the line; and though theoretically not liable to service abroad, is so practically, as whenever they have been required for foreign service militia regiments have always been found ready to volunteer for garrison duty in the colonies, or even for active service. Public opinion is, it is to be hoped, at last beginning to realise that the military strength of England depends not upon the number of men under arms who are borne upon the War Office returns, but upon the number of men who can be put into the field. The militia can be put into the field, or can at least free men from garrison duty who can swell the active ranks. The Volunteers can do neither.

It has been supposed, and I believe even stated, that Prince Arthur, who has lately joined the Royal Engineers as a lieutenant, is to be permanently attached to that corps. This is not the case. Prince Arthur will be attached successively to different branches of the service. After having passed a certain time with the Engineers he will be attached to the Artillery at Woolwich, and will afterwards do duty with the Rifle Brigade in order to become acquainted with the exercises of infantry. It is probable that the Prince will travel for about twelve months before he proceeds to Woolwich.

The death of Field Marshal Sir Edward Blakeney causes a vacancy in the Governorship of Chelsea Hospital. It is probable that this appointment will be conferred upon Sir Alexander Woodford. The Lieutenant-Governorship will then be vacant, and as yet it is undecided to whom it will fall. Whether a new Field Marshal will be made to fill Sir Edward Blakeney's place remains to be seen. As all the official world is sick of town it is extremely difficult to discover official intentions.

It is not at all improbable that the Grand Cross of the Star of India will be conferred upon Sir Stafford Northcote in recognition of his administrative ability in the direction of the Abyssinian expedition.

THE DISTURBANCES ON THE NORTH WEST FRONTIER.

(Delhi Gazette, August 25.)

WE are indebted to Indian Public Opinion for the following:—

"Another encounter with Hazara tribes rumoured. General Wilde wounded. Nineteenth foot suffered considerably."

We doubt the accuracy of this information, as it is unconfirmed by any of our correspondents.

OUR correspondent writing from Abbottabad on the 17th instant, says:—

"The endless line of laden camels, mules, elephants, and even two-wheeled vehicles of various kinds consequent upon the arrival of European troops, seems to have given place to the same returning unladen. Wonderful the difference between the impedimenta of Europeans and natives! The latter seem to have absolutely none. For this kind of warfare one cannot but admire the unencumbered native troops who, if armed with Snider rifles and Armstrong guns, would soon terminate these frontier disturbances without troubling the British soldier proper.

The 24th N.I. under Colonel Cave came in last Saturday (15th) at 4 A.M. This regiment halts at Abbottabad for the present. The 3rd Sikhs are expected shortly from Peshawur. The 25th N.I. march from the same station to Hoti-Murdan. The 20th Hussars move to Rawul Pindee, we hear.

Some anxiety has been felt about Colonel Johnstone of the Survey Department who has been on duty in the Khagan district with a small party of friends. They might easily have been cut off by the enemy, but they have escaped. One can fancy how distasteful Colonel Johnstone's occupation must be to the disaffected inhabitants of the interior.

The weather is extremely warm even here. The temperature is 85° in a house. It must be much more in tents. The 6th Europeans, who are at Hurreepore by this time, have lost eight or ten men owing to the intense heat since they left Rawul Pindee. They have succumbed to what is called heat appoplexy, what poor Dr. Renny of the 20th Hussars used to say was more properly heat-combustion, or heat-coma. If we do not have rain, they will continue to suffer from the heat in that stifling Hurreepore valley. If that position must be guarded, it is a pity native troops cannot be quartered at Hurreepore and the European sent up to Abbottabad. General Wylde, or Major-General Wylde, as he is during his campaign, leaves to-day or to-morrow to take command, with Colonels Bright and Vaughan as Brigadier Generals.

18th.—It only rains when the Europeans are marching. It rained heavily last Thursday when the 19th and Artillery arrived, and it rained hard last night as they were starting for Mansirah. At 2 A.M. the troops were all in parade ready to march and down came the rain.

A correspondent writing from Abbottabad on the 18th instant says, "Half of Lieutenant-Colonel Renny's Battery R. H. A., with elephant equipments to carry the guns over the hills, were to have marched this morning with the 19th Foot and a squadron of the 16th B. C., for Mansera, but were stopped by heavy rain. They hope to get off to-morrow morning. Major Johnson, A. Q. M. G., has joined the Force. Light mortars are coming from the Peshawar Magazine, and sixty Artillerymen from Mean Meer to work them. Lieutenant Stewart, R. A., Gunnery Instructor, 24th Brigade, is to be Adjutant to Lieutenant-Colonel E. Atlay, R. H. A., commanding the R. A., Hazara Field Force. A Field Magazine is to be formed at Rawul Pindee. Assistant Surgeon M. Cogan, is to have charge of the Field Hospital at Oghee in the Agror valley, which is to be the base of the Right Brigade in the operations against the Black Mountain tribes. The R. H. A., and 19th Foot are free from sickness, but sad accounts are heard of the sufferings of the 6th Foot at Hurripore. General Wylde starts this evening on a reconnoisance in the Agror Valley."

(Indian Public Opinion.)

We understand that a difference of opinion has arisen between Sir William Mansfield and the Governor General on the subject of a frontier campaign. Sir John thinks that a small force is all that will be required, whilst the Commander-in-Chief is of opinion that the present is the best time for giving a severe and permanent lesson to all of our troublesome neighbours. He therefore proposes that a large army be sent to the frontier, in order to stamp out once and for ever the seeds of disturbance, and to overawe the hill people by an exhibition of our strength, determination and numbers. We consider that Sir William Mansfield is altogether in the right; were General Nicholson alive, he would once more have convinced Sir John Lawrence of the impropriety of taking a feeble view on questions of frontier policy.

The Hassanzais have fled across the Black Mountain, but there is some reason to hope that they will not be able to cross the Indus, which is unusually full, before General Wylde's army overtakes them. The Agror Chiefs in our own territory have made their humble submission. The Khan of Agror is, we believe, on his way down country as a political prisoner. He is, however, a British subject, and if convicted of treason, will, we trust, meet the fate he deserves. There can be no doubt that now is the time to strike a decisive blow on the frontier. All these troops have surely not been ordered up for nothing. Let them destroy Sitana and reduce the Akhoond of Swat to allegiance. We must open the Hazara, Khagan, Chilas, Ghilghit and Mustuch roads: one infinitely nearer and easier than the Yarkand Lehand Kullu route, which after all, is only deserving of support faute de mieux. The direct line for Indo-Central Asian trade is the route over the Mustuch and if we once subdue Swat, the reduction of the other hill tribes along that road will be comparatively easy. Perhaps, too, we may shortly aid Ameer Shere Ali, who is reported to be only twelve miles from Cabul, to the re-conquest of his Kingdom, and thus establish our influence in Afghanistan, if we do not altogether occupy that country.

Account from Camp Agror.—All still in the Agror Valley. No sign of an enemy to be seen. Inhabitants fast returning to their villages, with their cattle. General Wylde moves up to-morrow 18th, with re-inforcements. Major C. Johnson, passed through Murree to-day to join his appointment as Assistant Quarter Master General. Some cases of appoplexy in the 6th Regt. A fresh European regiment on the march.—Indian Public Opinion.

BOMBAY.

DIVINE SERVICE will be held in the harbour to-morrow (Sunday) morning at a quarter past eleven o'clock on board the David Malcolmson near the Middle Ground, by the Rev. William Brown Keer.

BOMBAY BANK COMMISSION.

THE Bombay Bank Commission, which has held no public sitting from the 10th inst., resumed yesterday forenoon in the Town Hall. The attendance, as was to be expected, was not nearly so large as whilst Mr. Premchund Roychund had been under examination. The witnesses examined yesterday were Messrs. Dhunjee Bhoy Framjee, Veerchund Deepchund, Cowasjee Manecjee, a late director, Bomanjee Framjee Cama, Thos. Crawford, auctioneer, Jules Courvoisier, jeweller, of Messrs, Rosselet & Co., and Hurryvullubdass Calliandass. The latter three gentlemen were examined regarding the valuation of the jewels deposited by Premchund Roychund as security for the great 25 lakh loan, but nothing new was elicited. Hurryvullubdass seemed very anxious to deny that he had received Rs. 15,000 from Premchund to value the jewels at a high rate, as that statement had injured his character. He asked the Commissioners to be good enough to state who had told them this. The President said he could not tell that, as were they to do so in all such cases they would get themselves into never ending trouble. Perhaps Hurryvullubdass would be pleased with the assurance that the Commissioners did not believe it. The Commission adjourned till Monday forenoon, when Mr. Premchund Roychund will probably be further examined. The Commissioners, we believe, have been very busily engaged since the 10th instant examining books of different individuals and companies, and in preparing the interrogatories on the question regarding which they have been asked by the Secretary of State for India to report.

BOMBAY BENCH OF JUSTICES.

THE following is the portion of the proceedings of the special general meeting of the Bench of Justices held on Wednesday in the Town Hall which we were obliged to hold over.

Mr. Orniston entirely dissented from all the remarks of Major-General Tremenheere except the last one, and was regarding the miserable column in front of Treacher's shop. He objected entirely to its being said that the Finance Committee were not competent to deal with the question of salary. In all Municipalities at home the Finance Committee was the one which had to do with salaries, and he was surprised at Major-General Tremenheere, with all his knowledge, not knowing that.

Captain Hancock said he might be excused for adding, with reference to Mr. Crawford's remark that he knew nothing about finance, that he (Captain Hancock) well remembered Mr. Crawford's making that remark; he thought at the time that it was rather a random one, but since his experience on the Finance Committee he had come to the conclusion that Mr. Crawford was a good deal about finance.

Mr. C. Currey simply rose to express his dissent from most of the observations of General Tremenheere. He thought there would be no use in appointing two committees. One could do the work, whilst two, he thought, would clash. At last meeting he had been put upon the committee, and he must say that he thought he would be perfectly independent. He was quite aware that restoration of the finances of the Municipality was a great point to be attended to, and he looked upon the reduction of expenditure as one of the chief things that ought to be effected.

Mr. Narrayen Wassoodew said that when gentlemen came before the Bench to impeach the independence of the members of the Finance Committee, who had been nominated by the Justices, he would simply say that it was an act of injustice; and as for himself he was bound to say that his name was entered as a member of the committee when he was down the coast, and all he recollected having done in a friendly way was to oppose a certain measure of the Commissioner's. He could only say that when members came there without taking the trouble to read the reports circulated from time to time by the Finance Committee, the Justices could not expect any other treatment from them. He did not care how many committees the Bench chose to appoint, but it was hardly fair thus to treat the members of the Finance Committee for the trouble and services they had gratuitously rendered.

The Chairman said Mr. Nowrojee Furdoonjee informed him he had not put his amendment.

Mr. Nowrojee—No, I have reserved it. Are not we discussing whether the original motion should be withdrawn?

Mr. Connon remarked that they were almost quarrelling without understanding each other. He was sure neither Mr. Nowrojee, whose speech he had heard, nor Major-General Tremenheere, whose speech he had not heard, intended to reflect upon the Finance Committee. [A voice—He impeached the independence of the committee.] Very well, however, that might be, he (Mr. Connon) did not impeach the integrity and usefulness of the committee, but rather acknowledged these. But he learned now for the first time, or else he had previously forgot, that this committee, which he believed to be a Finance Committee solely, had got tacked on to it some title of Standing Committee—to look after things in general. They knew what Standing Committees sometimes came to. This committee, however, had been a most useful body up to this time, and he was particularly anxious for himself to acknowledge that and thank them for any services they had rendered. He was not aware that the committee had busied itself as yet about anything but finance, but he would venture to say that it did not follow as a necessary consequence that they were exactly the persons the bench should have appointed for the revision of the Municipal Act. He would not depreciate an appointment which had not been offered him, but in the course of a year's service in the place he now occupied he had acquired, perhaps, some knowledge about the Municipal Act, and if they did not do him the honour to appoint him on the committee he could give to any committee they might appoint the result of his experience. (Applause.)

Captain Hancock said that large committees were undoubtedly bad, but he had no doubt the Finance Committee would be very glad to have anybody who wished to join.

Mr. Nowrojee said he might now assume that the Bench allowed the original motion to be withdrawn at the request of the Chairman. If that was understood, he would move an amendment.

The question was then put to the meeting whether the Chairman should be allowed to withdraw his motion, and it was agreed that permission should be given to do so.

Mr. Nowrojee then moved the following amendment in the exact terms of Mr. Bayley's notice of motion on the resolution which had been proposed by the Chairman:—

"That in the opinion of the Bench of Justices, it is desirable that a Select Committee of the Justices be appointed to report at as early a day as possible upon the following matters:—(A.) Whether it is expedient that any and what alterations or reductions should be made in the existing salaries or establishments under the Bombay Municipal Act of 1865, or in any and which of them? (B.) Whether any and what alterations and amendments, in the said Act (No. IV. of 1867) are desirable, and whether it is expedient that the same should be embodied in a further amending Act, or whether the existing Acts should be repealed and a new one passed."

After the discussion which had taken place he would not, he said, detain the Bench longer than was absolutely necessary. (Hear, hear.) In the first place he disclaimed any intention of casting any slur on the Finance Committee. That committee had been appointed for the purpose of supervising the financial position of the Municipality. He had been informed, that it had done very great and good service for which the members were entitled to the thanks of the Bench. He, for one, would at any proper time join in thanking that committee for its disinterested labour, but he thought that that committee had been specially appointed for the purpose of looking after the finances. At all events it could not be denied that the first nomination of that committee was made with that view, and that subsequently some consultive duties were entrusted to it. (Dr. Birdwood—Insultative!) He wanted now a good practical committee of the Bench, not only deliberative and consultive, but a committee to enquire impartially into every matter embodied in this resolution, to weigh everything carefully, to consult the wishes and feelings of the native community whom they represented, and report to the Bench. It was an important matter to decide on this clause of the resolution—"Whether it is expedient that any and what alterations or reductions should be made in the existing salaries or establishments under 'The Bombay Municipal Act of 1865,' or in any and which of them?" The Municipal Act when passed was regarded only as an experimental measure to be enforced for two or three years. At the end of that time it was expected that with all the experience of the Municipality in the working of the Act, a sort of final measure would be discussed and passed. That time had now arrived, and the measure which the Bench would now propose to the Legislative Council ought to be a final well considered measure, and in order to enable this committee to prepare it he thought members of the Bench representing the views and sentiments of the majority of the rate-payers should be appointed. It should be an influential committee and should contain several of the most zealous members of the Finance Committee in order that the Bench might have the benefit of their views, opinions, and services. Therefore, without imputing the least blame or casting the slightest slur on the Finance Committee, as a committee appointed for the object and purpose of looking after the finances of the Municipality, which they had done very ably, he begged to propose that a consulting committee, representing fully both the native and European community of Bombay, should be appointed to enquire and report on the subject embodied in the motion which had been proposed. (Hear, hear.) This being one of the most important matters coming within the sanction of the Bench should be carefully and thoroughly enquired into and reported upon, and if it were agreeable to the gentlemen composing the Finance Committee, he had no objection to mould his amendment so as to include them in the Select Committee. He submitted that there was nothing in his motion at which the Finance Committee ought to take offence.

Mr. F. F. Arbuthnot seconded Mr. Nowrojee's amendment.

Mr. Nowrojee explained that he meant the Select Committee to be inclusive of the Finance Committee.

Dr. Collum thought that if the appointment of such a committee would give any satisfaction to the native community the motion should be adopted.

Captain Hancock explained that the Finance Committee did not consider the appointment of such a committee to be a slur upon it. What the members of the Finance Committee objected to was the calling in question their independence.

Rao Sahib Wishvanath Narayen Mundlik would rather vote for the amendment, for he thought there should be a large committee which would give satisfaction because every section of the community should be represented.

Major-General Tremenheere said several gentlemen had spoken as if he had not given the Finance Committee credit for what it had done. In opening his speech he had given full credit to the Finance Committee for their labours as a Finance Committee. (Hear, hear.) But that committee had been of no use otherwise—had not made a single retrenchment or reduced the establishment in any way so far as he was aware.

Mr. Crawford—Before this motion, to which I have no objection, is put, perhaps I may be allowed to say a few words. I think what General Tremenheere has been good enough to say to-day regarding me has perhaps been the very greatest compliment that has been paid to me—(hear, hear)—for it is a tribute paid, unwillingly I have no doubt, to my having been unusually active, whereas General Tremenheere—who must now excuse me for my plain speaking—is himself notoriously considered to be the very embodiment of inaction, retrogression, and obstructiveness. (Hear, hear and laughter.) I go in for progress and action, but if I had adopted the policy of General Tremenheere, nothing whatever would have been done, and we should now be in a worse state than we were three years ago. Of course General Tremenheere must take my remarks in good part as I took his, but it is the fact that efficiency and obstructiveness are to minds like his synonymous!

General Tremenheere—That is only an opinion. (Laughter.)

Mr. Crawford—Yes, and what I have said is my opinion. The fact is we are members of different schools, and I much prefer my own. It is always better to do something than to do nothing, and it is better for the British raj that such opinions as I hold should prevail. A few rash words of mine have been quoted by General Tremenheere against me, but these words were used by me on a previous occasion in ironical reference to financiers who had not acquitted themselves very successfully in regard to the management of large financial establishments of which they had had the control in Bombay. (Laughter.) And my having got so far as I have without any assistance from yourselves shows I think that I have some knowledge of finance. I have been told in one breath that the Bench wished to have control and that I could not exercise it; and in another breath I was told I had been a king and had carried everything as I wished. (Laughter.) I do not understand this, it is inconsistent. As to all these personal matters, sir, I am quite content to rest my reputation, not on the opinions of General Tremenheere, but on the opinions of the Bench, as practically expressed in the resolutions of the Bench, which Government has certainly ratified in re-nominating me unsolicited for another three years. (Hear, hear.) As to what has been said by General Tremenheere and one other speaker, a native gentleman, about the independence of the Finance Committee and their blowing my trumpet, I must say I have no cause at all to be ashamed of the fact that when members of the Bench have from time to time joined the committee they have worked well with me. (Hear, hear.) I fancy it is rather creditable to me, and I am not in the least ashamed of it. For my own part I now say, as I have been saying for the last three years, "Come to the office and make yourselves informed about everything, make your suggestion, and if you make them intelligibly and shall be carried out." Before coming here and speaking on a subject I ascertain the facts. All my records are open for inspection at the office, except my correspondence with Government, which by the rules I am forbidden from making public; but everything else is perfectly at the disposal of the Bench, and any Justice can come and see everything. My returns are all known too, are all printed and published. My only desire is that you should really try to do what the Municipal Act intended. You should try to control your affairs and me; and if you can't do that, it is no reason why I should be inert? I devoutly hope those gentlemen who will be added to the committee will work. I am sorry to say that some who formerly belonged to the Standing Committee rarely attended at all. If you can only get one or two first-rate working men on the committee you will do the public great service and myself a great kindness. (Applause.)

The motion and amendment were then put to the meeting, when Mr. Nowrojee's amendment was unanimously carried.

Mr. Nowrojee then proposed—

That the following gentlemen be appointed to serve on the Select Committee, in conference with the Finance Committee—Col. J. S. Trevor R.E.; Dr. W. Collum; J. Connon, Esq.; C. M. Keir, Esq.; F. F. Arbuthnot, Esq.; Framjee Nasserwanjee, Esq.; Rao Saheb V. N. Mundlik, Esq.; Kahendas Muncharam, Esq.; Shantaram Narayen, Esq.; and Atmaram Pandoorang, Esq.

Dr. Birdwood thought this committee as proposed by Mr. Nowrojee would be a most unwieldy one. Large committees generally were apt to lose the sense of their responsibility, and he should vote against this committee most decidedly. He hoped somebody would prepare a better list. The addition of the names of Colonel Trevor, Rao Saheb W. N. Mundlik, Mr. John Connon, and Mr. Candass Muncharam would be quite sufficient to represent every interest. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. F. F. Arbuthnot said he would second such an amendment.

Mr. John Connon begged to explain that he did not consider himself appointed a member of the Finance Committee. He knew nothing about finance, except that he had lost all his money—(laughter,)—which perhaps ought to have taught him a lesson, though he did not know that it had. However, he would be quite willing to act on a committee with reference to the Bombay Municipal Act, of which he professed to know something, and as to which he might be able to lay his hand on some points which might well be amended.

Mr. Crawford suggested that the name of Mr. Orniston, whose independence was undoubted, might be added. (Hear, hear.) He considered that on all questions of this kind Mr. Orniston would be most invaluable, and he asked as a matter of fairness to the engineering department of the Municipality that he should be added to the committee. There were reasons why too many of the Public Works Department should not be nominated. (Hear, hear.)

Dr. Birdwood agreed to have Mr. Orniston, and also to keep Mr. Candass, but said no more names could be added. He then proposed that the following gentlemen be appointed to serve on the Select Committee, in conference with the Finance Committee:—Col. J. S. Trevor, R.E.; Rao Saheb V. N. Mandlik; Nowrojee Furdoonjee, Esq.; John Connon, Esq.; Kahandas Muncharam, Esq.; and Thomas Orniston, Esq., C.E.

The Chairman remarked that as the Rao Saheb had said he should like to see every class of the community represented, he (the Chairman) would suggest that, as there were females among the population, it might be desirable that they should be represented upon the committee. (Laughter.)

Rao Sahib V. N. Mundlik said he would have given his vote for that, but at present he thought it was rather premature. (Laughter.)

Mr. Nowrojee then spoke in favour of the names proposed by him, and hoped that his committee would be appointed.

Dr. Birdwood—Mr. Nowrojee has proposed a committee of the whole Bench.

Mr. Nowrojee—I beg your pardon, sir, I have not. The Bench numbers upwards of one hundred. (Laughter.)

It was then put to the meeting which committee they would appoint, when the amendment proposed by Dr. Birdwood was carried.

THE RELATIVE DUTIES OF THE HEALTH OFFICER AND CONSULTING OFFICER OF HEALTH.

Dr. Collum again drew attention to the following notice which he had sent to the Clerk of the Peace, and on which there was some discussion at last meeting:—

"SIR,—In connection with the discussion at the last meeting of the Bench of Justices relative to the filling up of the appointment of Health Officer, I give notice that at the special meeting I shall request the Municipal Commissioner to explain what he considers the legitimate duties of the Consulting Officer of Health appointed by the Governor in Council under para. 15 of Act II. of 1865 for the City of Bombay. Should the Commissioner's explanation prove unsatisfactory, I shall propose, 'That as opposed to the interests of the Municipality that the Consulting Officer of Health should any longer be charged with the executive duties but an executive sanatory officer shall be allotted to superintend the cleansing of the town."

He said his notice simply amounted to this, that he disapproved of the present system of union between the Health Department and the Scavenging Department. He considered it was radically calculated to promote neither efficient scavenging. There was already a department maintained by Government to overlook the health of the Presidency which cost, he believed, Rs. 3,500 per month and the officer at the head of that department was at the command of the Bench whenever they asked him, as they had every right to have his opinion if required. Then there was their own Consulting Officer of Health at a salary of Rs. 500 per month, and he thought that a somewhat better division of labour might be made than the present one. He had his own ideas as to what might be done, but he did not express them now, as it was not the proper time for such an expression of opinion. The question whether the expense might not be reduced, he thought, was well worthy the attention of the Justices, and especially of the native Justices; and they ought to consider it seriously and in a pure spirit, and try to find out what was really best for the inhabitants of this town—whether the old system of arranging with their own halalcores or the present system. Let them decide the question by an impartial spirit, and give the Bench at the proper time the benefit of their opinion on the matter. At present he did not wish to do anything more than ask the Commissioner if he at some future time would consider this question and give it support. He should be very glad to hear anything the Commissioner might have to say on the subject.

Dr. Birdwood said he concurred with what had fallen from Dr. Collum. He thought that at present they were just beginning to understand "state medicines" although they were almost as far advanced as similar bodies were in England on that subject. The only country where state medicine was thoroughly known was Prussia, and it would be a very good thing if Dr. Hewlett were to pay some attention to the Prussian system after his health should be to some extent re-established and report on it to the Bench on his return. He was very much surprised at the absence of the Acting Health Officer when an important question of this sort was notified for the consideration of the Bench. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Crawford thought Dr. Birdwood must regret having alluded in any way to the absence of the Health Officer, because Dr. Lumsdaine might have stayed away from feelings of deficency, thinking that a personal question would arise. At all events they might presuppose that Dr. Lumsdaine was doing his duty. If Dr. Lumsdaine had considered his attendance to be necessary he had no doubt he would have been present. For his own part, he (Mr. Crawford) did not think Dr. Lumsdaine's attendance was necessary. As to the question raised he believed it would be premature to discuss it now. He thought there was a great deal of force in the objection on the other side, but he thought this change should not be made at present. He thought he was entitled to some weight on this point. If the Bench independently of this committee which had just been organised were still of the same opinion in 1870, he guaranteed that what they wished would be done. (Applause.) Before that, however, he thought the Bench should have a report on the matter from the Committee which had been appointed. (Applause.)

Dr. Collum expressed himself quite satisfied.

The meeting then adjourned at twenty minutes past six, the sitting having lasted from half-past [illegible] supplies of moment can reach this market before December.

From India the exports are now very trifling, say 46,000 bales from Bombay to all Europe in the first three weeks of July, and from all we can learn we think they will continue very small for the remainder of this year.

P.S. FOR INDIA. 6TH AUGUST, P.M.—Our market during the past few days has again become depressed in tone, and prices have given way ¼d. to ½d. per lb., bringing American back to the lowest point touched last week—9¼d. for Middling Boweds, and Surats to even a lower level. The nominal quotations to-day are 7¼d. for fair Oomrawuttee and 7¾d. for fair Dhollerah, but sales have taken place on a much lower basis; old Dhollerah, chassing nearly fair, has been sold from 6¾d. to 7d., and new Oomrawuttee, from the quay, at 7¼d.

The descriptions that are most plentiful at present are new Oomrawuttee and old Dhollerah; the former, so far, is pretty good in quality, the most of it classing fully fair, but some of the last arrivals, show a marked falling off, and much of the Cotton that sailed in the beginning of April, will scarcely class fair. The old Dhollera is mostly ¼d. to ½d. under fair. Broach, so far, is of excellent quality, and much in favour with Spinners. The best machine ginned fetches almost the price of clean American. Sawginned Dharwar is in good demand for the Continent, at 7¾d. for fair.

There is little doing in Cotton to arrive, and the last quotations are—for Oomrawuttee, due 7¾d., new Dhollerah, May sailing 7¾d. to 7¾d., and old Dhollerah, same sailing 6¾d.

1. Policies once issued by this Society are absolutely indisputable except in cases of fraud.
2. Policies in full force during days of grace allowed for payment of premium.
3. Policies which have been in force for 5 years are not liable to forfeiture on account of the temporary inability of the assured to pay the premium, as the Directors will advance the premium as often as the value of the Policy will admit and allow the amount to remain as debt against the Policy.
4. Medical Fees paid by the Society when the Assurance is for Rs. 2,500 and upwards.

FIDELITY ASSURANCE

The European Assurance Society is the only Society in England, India, and the Colonies especially empowered by the British Parliament to guarantee the Fidelity of, or become Surety for Officers of Her Majesty's Naval, Military, and Civil Services, besides, Managers, Secretaries, Accountants, Cashiers, Shroffs, Clerks, and others holding situations of trust in Banks and public Companies, private Firms, &c.

FIDELITY AND LIFE ASSURANCE COMBINED.

This method, introduced by this Society, confers important advantages by the Reductions allowed in the Life Premiums to the extent of from 50 to 100 per cent. of the Guarantee Premium.
